This is one of the questions to be teased out at two meetings called by Bishop Fintan for May 27th/28th. The meetings will be addressed by Julian Stanz from America who has helped parishes and dioceses respond to change. We hope to be represented at the Saturday meeting which will be in Rosscarbery.

Masses and anniversaries

Usually, priests offer Mass for one person but in recent years families have asked for one Mass for several people and that is welcome.

With fewer Masses being celebrated, it is no longer possible to guarantee that an individual Mass will be offered for just one person on Sunday. Sunday is also the day when families can come together most easily for anniversaries.

So from the beginning of June, each Sunday Mass (incl Saturday Vigil Masses) may be offered for up to three intentions. Weekday Masses will continue to be offered for one family.

We also ask that, if possible, weekend Masses be offered for people whose Month's Mind, First Anniversary or recent anniversary falls on these dates so that we can support recently bereaved families.

Summer timetable of Masses

From the first weekend of June, the Mass times will be:

Saturday Vigil Mass:

6.30pm Lisavaird

7pm Clonakilty

7.30pm Timoleague or Courtmacsherry (alternate weeks)

Sunday Mass

8.30am Clonakilty

10am Ardfield or Rathbarry (alternate weeks)

10am Barryroe or Clogagh (alternate weeks)

10am Darrara (alternate weeks)

11am Rossmore or Bealad (alternate weeks)

11.30am Clonakilty

11.30am Rosscarbery
