REVISED TIMES OF MASSES IN OUR FAMILY OF PARISHES

Personnel issues and reduced congregations in some churches along with unsuitable times for some communities all suggest that last year's winter timetable needs to be revised and reduced.

The new timetable will continue to concentrate on the parish churches and the other churches will have Mass once a month. So there will still be ten to twelve Masses celebrated in the Family of Parishes each weekend.

The need for communities to think and look beyond their own local church building and to think instead about parish — and then family of parishes — is an ongoing challenge.

A sustainable timetable needs to provide for having four priests available on a given weekend (each offering 3 Masses in different places). In order to allow for choice for people, travel by priests and a dignified celebration, some of the Mass times are changing slightly.

This is the new timetable. It will be announced and explained over the next two weekends and will be effective from the first weekend of October.

6.00pm Rosscarbery

7.00pm Clonakilty

Rathbarry (Vigil of 3rd Sunday)

Please note these are Vigils of 1st, 2nd and 3rd Sundays of the month; Bealad Mass is the night before Darrara Mass, Clogagh before Lisavaird, Rathbarry the night before Courtmacsherry.
